

Abstract:

Nowadays, we see that historic fabrics of our cities has lost their ability and efficiency to update with new conditions and let jobbers to destruct them

The actions of their renovating o and rehabilitating is just either physically or conservation with out intervening.

So, the only thing that is not notified, is requirements of men who are the actual residents & rightful of these areas.

Hayat Shahi, one of the micro quarter of Udelajan (one of the five historic quarters of old Tehran), is dealing with low qualifications of habitancy, like the other historic fabrics of Tehran. So that if it will be going on in this way and lack of attending to its revitalizing, they will lose their identity.

Thus the researcher is going to present some methods in models of arranging sketches, revisory patterns and strategic politics wich are useful for improving status of Hayat Shahi quarter up to rank of a residential quarter to responding her goals like : revitalizing the elements & values wich make the traditional structure of habitancy and providing conditions of living in the quarter in a descriptive-analytic procedure.
