

Abstract:

Bisotun is located on the side of the old Road of Karvan from Baino-ol-nahrain to Ekbatan, 33 kilometers to the east of Kermanshah. From Paleolithic era up to now , Bisotun has been inhabited and there are valuable monument from different eras in this area.

Sassanian-Illkhanid building is one of the important monuments in Bisotun area. It is attributed to Sassanian era, and was dilapidated through years . after Islam, in Illkhanid era a building was built on the eastern remain of it.

The purpose of this research is first ,to determine the different eras and recognition of the architecture of the building based on documents and comparison with contemporary building and second to obtain a plan for the maintenance and restoration of the building , through complete knowledge of the building and according to the bases of the restoration of monument ,and some questions are raised about different eras of building ,use of the building in different eras, the original structure of different parts of the building, and the bases of the intervention in the archeological area.

The data is collected through library and field study and the research method was descriptive, comparative, and analytical. The finding are the building era of the monument, Hasanooyh and then Illkhanid , and presenting a plan for the maintenance and rebuilding of the monument.

Keywords:

Kermanshah - Bisotun - Sassanian - Illkhanid - Hasanooyh